

A special day:

Lena, June 8th 2023

On June 5th, the yellow three had a simulation at the y-lab. They had to simulate a real Oskar-event with thank you-speeches, fancy clothes and articles. They could choose one group, stars, journalists and fans, and must create products for the simulation. This article is about the Hollywood-project and the course from this.

It all started at 8 o'clock. The completely yellow three met at the y-lab in the Friedländer Weg 2. First, they had to organize a few things, but after that, it all started with the flight from Göttingen to America. After that, there was a entry from the stars, because there are the special guests from the event. All set down in a presentation room and Friederike and Fynn, our teacher, talked shortly with us. They explained the course of the day and then, the first awards started. All the nominated fans, who won, had to held a thankyou-speech in front of the whole class. After the first nominations, we could go to different rooms and collecting some stars (in form of stickers), which we could stick on our working sheet to show our teachers, that we spoke a lot English in the last few hours. In the different rooms, there was some stations, for example a photo station, a guest book station and a bar. We had a bit time, to collect stars, and then, we went again to the presentation room, and the second awards started. It was the turn for the journalist. They had also to held thankyou speeches. After that, we had again time to collect stars. Then, the Oscar-simulation comes to an end, with the last awards and thankyou speeches from the stars. We took the flight back to Göttingen.

After this cool day, I can say that it was a funny and interesting experience and for every 8th class very important to learn the pronunciation of English better.
