

And the Oscar goes to...

8th of June, Alice and Sophie

On the 6th of June the Yellow 5 had a Oscar simulation, which they worked very hard for. The simulation was in the YLAB and went from 8am until 11:30 am. You could be a fan, a star or a journalist. Students from the university (Alyin, Emily and Lukas) helped us work on our roles. As a journalist you wrote an article, as a star you made a movie trailer and as a fan you could make a fan video or a poster. You also could become creative and create fun and interesting products. The grade was based on these products. At the simulation the products of every person were presented and everyone won an oscar. Without the university students the simulation wouldn't have been possible. There were many stations that you could go to, like for example a bar where you could order drinks and speak to the bartender or you could go to the make-up station and get a tattoo or nail polish. At each station you could collect stars and at the end the person with the most won a prize. But because many people collected the same amount of stars everyone won.

The oscar simulation was a lot of fun and we can't wait to be in hollywood ourselves.
